

Spring Mini-Jamboree

Date: Right after exams (see JobMarket-KeyDates calendar)

Right after exams, all day session for students and JMPO

- 30 minute mini-job-talks for all students
- All job candidates attend all talks
- All advisors are expected to attend in person if at all possible
 - Will be available by Zoom for those unable to attend in person
- Participation by other faculty who have worked with the student and know the student's work is encouraged
- All faculty are invited
- Feedback for revising papers and presentations over the summer

Fall Jamboree

- The length of student presentations should be adjusted so that the entire Jamboree occupies no more than 5 hours on a single day
- Share student preferences (job type; location; coordination problems)
 - 5 minutes at beginning should be devoted to these topics
- Students learn from each other
- All advisors are expected to attend in person if at all possible
- Participation by other faculty who have worked with the student and know the student's work is encouraged
- All faculty are invited and encouraged to attend
 - Faculty learn about students (esp. those not in their fields)
 - Some of the most valuable feedback comes from faculty outside the student's field, who will ask the kinds of questions the student might get in a job market talk to the full faculty at another institution
- Details - Students should:
 - Prepopulate their reservation for a time slot with their Zoom link
 - If your memo is already written, send it to your advisors and the JMPO a couple of days beforehand. The memo is not due until after the Jamboree (see the TimeTable), so do not delay preparing your presentation in order to write it
